

Specialized services

The Laboratory provides specialized, non-standardized services into sectors where customer demands require the design and implementation of measuring equipment with special specifications (measurement of thermal-insulating characteristics in non-typical geometries, of optical properties, long distance measurement of energy efficiency, etc).